SPEEDING UP THE PROCESS

SIELCO reached out to Exclaimer when it was experiencing challenges in managing company-wide email signatures.

There were concerns among the SIELCO team that individual employees were editing and formatting their own signatures, with customized designs not being checked with the compliance team before being sent out. This risked key information being missed and costing SIELCO legal action or reputational damage.

As a result, much of the team’s time was spent manually checking email signatures, rather than focusing on beneficial business tasks.

When SIELCO began searching for an intuitive, cost-effective solution, Exclaimer’s global reputation was an attractive proposition.

Luca Ercoli, Presales and Innovation Director at SIELCO explained how Exclaimer’s services helped the team save time on email signature management day-to-day:

“Things are completely different now. Our email signatures were difficult to manage at scale; individual users could edit and customize signatures, and our IT department was spending too much time checking outgoing signature templates”.

“With Exclaimer, we now have a centralized design. We can control email signatures remotely, and we’re able to customize signatures to reflect our latest brand messaging and legal disclaimers. This is especially useful when incorporating marketing messaging”.

A CENTRALIZED SOLUTION

A priority for the SIELCO team was finding a comprehensive solution that solved as many issues as possible in a single easy-to-use package. After hearing about Exclaimer through word of mouth and being further impressed by its online
